

The following are some examples of different Study Plans. Feel free to customize one of these plans to your specific schedule. There will be weeks when you do not have a written assignment or graded quiz, so then you would just move on to the next items on the list.

Daily Plan

This plan makes each day somewhat even as far as workload. It is recommended to still have one day entirely off each week. This example shows the day off on Saturday, but any day can be chosen.

Thursday

1. Start Reading for the Unit

Friday

1. Finish Reading for the Unit
2. Write and submit Main Discussion

Saturday

1. Break Day

Sunday

1. Start Written Assignment

Monday

1. Finish and submit Written Assignment
2. Take Self Quiz
3. Study for Graded Quiz

Tuesday

1. Peer Grading
2. Respond to 3 other students in Discussion
3. Take the Graded Quiz

Wednesday

1. Finish up any unfinished tasks
2. Write and submit Learning Journal

Weekend Plan

This plan is a bit more intense on a few days, but this may be a great option if you often have more time on certain days of the week.

Thursday

1. Break day

Friday

1. Break Day

Saturday

1. Reading for the Unit
2. Write and submit Main Discussion
3. Start Written Assignment
4. Take Self Quiz

Sunday

1. Finish and submit Written Assignment
2. Respond to 3 students in Discussion
3. Peer Grading
4. Study for Graded Quiz
5. Take Graded Quiz
6. Write and submit Learning Journal

Monday

1. Finish any unfinished tasks

Tuesday

1. Break day

Wednesday

1. Break day

Hybrid Plan

This could be the best of both worlds with one intense day and a couple other days that are shorter. Different days could be chosen depending on your schedule.

Thursday

1. Break Day

Friday

1. Reading for the Unit

Saturday

1. Write and submit Main Discussion
2. Start Written Assignment
3. Take Self Quiz

Sunday

1. Finish and submit Written Assignment
2. Peer Grading

Monday

1. Respond to 3 other students in Discussion
2. Study for Graded Quiz

Tuesday

1. Take Graded Quiz
2. Write and submit Learning Journal

Wednesday

1. Break Day

Weekends Off Plan

This could be the best of both worlds with one intense day and a couple other days that are shorter. Different days could be chosen depending on your schedule.

Thursday

1. Reading for the unit
2. Write and submit Main Discussion

Friday

1. Start Written Assignment

Saturday

1. Break Day

Sunday

1. Break Day

Monday

1. Take Self Quiz
2. Peer Grading
3. Respond to 3 other peers in the Discussion
4. Study for Graded Quiz

Tuesday

1. Finish and Submit Written Assignment
2. Take Graded Quiz

Wednesday

3. Write and submit Learning Journal

Procrastination Plan

This plan is not recommended because it's just not conducive to learning and makes Wednesdays quite stressful. There is a high chance something will not be finished on time with this plan.

Friday

1. Break Day

Saturday

1. Break Day

Sunday

1. Break Day

Monday

1. Break Day

Tuesday

1. Break Day

Wednesday

1. Reading for Unit
2. Write and submit Main Discussion
3. Start Written Assignment
4. Finish and submit Written Assignment
5. Peer Grading
6. Respond to 3 other students in Discussion
7. Take Self Quiz
8. Take Graded Quiz

Thursday

1. Write and submit Learning Journal